

Challenge To Bucks: 'The Sprawl'

By JIM STANTON
Courier-Times Staff Writer
(First in a series of articles).

Mr. L. W. Bucks sought the wide expanses of congested living in a nearby metropolis.

Beguiled by tourist folders, Mr. Bucks exclaimed dreamily: "Breathing room at last!" He purchased a new home in a small but steadily growing community.

What he didn't count on was that thousands of his city neighbors were making the same plans.

Here was forming one of the most dramatic dashes to the hinterlands since the days of the Gold Rush.

What Could Happen

One morning, say in the year 1980, L. W. Bucks could conceivably awaken, look out his bedroom window and suddenly realize that the megalopolis from which he had fled some 30 years before had reached out and engulfed him.

From his window, Mr. Bucks could look down the highway the state had just built behind his home. On it and stretching endlessly and out of sight were produce stands, motels, service stations, snack stands and occasional stores.

In the other direction, down along the small street on which his home fronted, were dwellings like his own as far as the eye could see.

Highway Clogged

On this particular morning, a Saturday, a cacophony from the highway reached our homeowner. Horns from autos of all type assortments were bleating hopelessly.

The highway was clogged by vehicles spilling from the numerous facilities. Cars pulling off the thoroughfare to reach parking places in front of stores were blocked by those autos coming out.

Officials from Mr. Bucks' municipality had once talked about plans for widening the highway to four lanes. But that was no longer possible now because the right-of-way would overlap the very store fronts.

L. W. Bucks had become a victim of "the sprawl." Commercial ventures as well as
(Continued on Page 3, Col. 1)

Weather

Fair today, tonight and tomorrow. High today, 70; low tonight in mid 40s; high tomorrow in 70s.

The Levittown Times

Delaware Valley's Great Home Newspaper

For News Of Morrisville
Yardley
Makefield
See Page 22

VOL. 9, No. 181

Member ABC

LEVITTOWN, PA., THURSDAY EVENING, MAY 10, 1962

46 PAGES

PRICE SEVEN CENTS

Armed Thug Beats, Robs Man On Rt. 13

Held Up At Gas Station

A Morrisville man was beaten into unconsciousness and robbed of $203.51 in an armed holdup at a Premium service station on Route 13, Levittown, early this morning.

Bristol Township police sent out a general alarm for the holdup assailant, who was described as a "husky-built Negro."

Victim of the robbery was Bertram Robinson, 48, of 26 Union St., station attendant, who was treated at Lower Bucks County Hospital for lacerations of both eyes and nose.

2nd Armed Holdup

The robbery took place at 2:30 a.m. at the 12-island service station. It was the second armed holdup at the station in two years. Another attendant was tied up and bound during a similar early-morning robbery two years ago.

Robinson told Bristol Township police he was sitting in the at-
(Continued On Page 22)

Good Evening!

S.O. Betting For G.O.C.

Topcoat mornings.

And you feel silly carrying it home in the heat of the afternoon. Better days are coming.

Terrible tragedy in Philadelphia yesterday. A Levittowner went to the rescue of his helper and both were overcome by fumes.

Both men leave families.

Bill Green gives Dilworth the green light. He hails the ex-mayor and pledges his full support.

Well, Dilworth must think, better late than never. That might get Green a little patronage if Dilworth is elected.

The figures show that employment in April soared to a record high. Over 67,827,000 were employed.

Those are cheery figures. That is, unless you are one of the 3,952,000 unemployed. There is nothing sadder than being out of work and getting turn-downs. It makes you feel as if the world is against you.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk wins a victory. He persuades Australia to send troops to Vietnam.

It's about time some of our Allies start contributing to the fight against militant communism.

The Phils lose to the Reds last night. The hitting and some of the fielding continue to be high spots for the Phils.

Even the Giants lost last night.

Sign on a soft-drink machine with an adjoining bottle rack: "Test your IQ. Try putting the little round bottles in the square holes."

"Before I was married," a fellow said, "I had three theories about bringing up children. Now I have three children, and no theories."

Be careful.

MAN, GRANDSON DIE IN WARMINSTER FIRE

Volunteer 48,087 Hours

Some 275 volunteer workers, who had worked 48,087 hours at Lower Bucks County Hospital during the past year, were feted yesterday afternoon at the hospital in observance of Hospital Week. (Courier-Times Photo)

7 Rescued; Youth Found In Doorway

A 70-year-old Bucks County man and his grandson, who would have been 17 next month, perished early this morning when fire swept through their Warminster home at 425 Maple St.

Dead were Albert Harrison, the grandfather, and Alfred Rosenelli.

Seven other members of the family were rescued, several through the efforts of the youth, whose body was discovered lying across the doorway to one of the bedrooms.

The elder victim was found lying across his bed. Bucks County Deputy Coroner Albert Decker attributed their death to asphyxiation.

Cause Unknown

The exact cause of the fire, which occurred shortly before 1:30 a.m. has not yet been determined. It is believed, however, it may have started in the fireplace in the living room of the two-story stucco house.

Bucks County Fire Marshal Fred K. Hibbs and State Police Fire Marshal Michael Wargo, who were at the scene, said the flames apparently swept right up through the center of the living room to the upstairs causing considerable smoke and excessive heat.

Intense Heat

Warminster Fire Company Chief Elmer Otto said that when firemen arrived, the heat was so intense that they were unable to enter the building.

Because of the tragedy, the relationship between several members of the family to each other was not immediately established because of differences in names.

Father In Garage

Chief Otto said that when the fire started, the dead youth's father, Alfred Rosenelli, was in the garage at the time. Rosenelli and his wife, Dorothy, own the house.

Others in the family, rescued were their three other children.
(Continued on Page 3, Col. 5)

Asphyxiation Caused Death Of Two Men

Benjamin R. Portnoy

Asphyxiation was blamed for the deaths yesterday of two Lower Bucks men in a 10,000-gallon fuel oil tank beneath a North Philadelphia warehouse.

The victims were Benjamin R. Portnoy, 35, of 25 Goodturn Lane, Greenbrook, Levittown, operator of Ben's Tank Maintenance Service, and his helper of two weeks, Joseph Eisenhart, 23, of 113 Pennsylvania Ave., Yardley.

Dr. Joseph W. Spellman, Philadelphia medical examiner, said the two men were overcome by fumes in the tank and fell into
(Continued on Page 3, Col. 3)

Tullytown Board Votes To Leave Twp.

The Tullytown Borough School board last night wrote the first words of the epitaph for the Delhaas school jointure.

By a unanimous vote, the five directors of the Tullytown district voted to get out of Delhaas when and if they can.

In the same resolution, the directors voted to get into Pennsbury with the same provision—if it can be done.

The approval of the other component of the Delhaas jointure, the Bristol Township board, is necessary before the jointure can be dissolved, and the approval of the Pennsbury board is needed to take Tullytown in.

School Break Down

The Delhaas system is for secondary - schools only, with both Bristol Township and Tullytown sending students to Delhaas junior and senior highs. The two boards operate their own elementary schools separately.

However, any Pennsbury jointure would be complete, for both elementary and secondary schools.

Tullytown's resolution last night was the first formal step toward dissolution of Delhaas. Actions by the Bristol Township and Pennsbury boards and approval of the county school directors and the state council on education also are needed.

The change in jointures has been discussed openly for some
(Continued on Page 3, Col. 4)

Supplement Today

Included in today's Courier-Times is a special 12-page Mill St. Tabloid filled with gifts for mother.

Snyder Named Interim Chairman Twp. Launches Drive To Lure New Industry For 2,000 Acres

By SCOOP LEWIS
Courier-Times Staff Writer

Bristol Township yesterday kicked off an ambitious program to bring new industry to the township's wide, open acres.

Leading business and industrial leaders met with Bristol Township and county government officials at a luncheon meeting in the Bristol Motor Inn to initiate the drive.

Leonard Snyder, manager of the Levittown branch of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Bucks County, was named interim chairman of the Bristol Township Industrial Development Council. Serving on the council will be various business and industrial leaders of the area.

Created By Twp. Unit

The council was created by the Bristol Township Industrial Development Committee, which served as host to the luncheon yesterday. Township Commissioner Arthur F. Diehl Jr. is chairman of the committee. Serving on the committee are Harry Fawkes, president of the township board of commissioners, and Commissioners Leonard B. Sokolove, Jack Ward and Samuel U. Delp.

Township Manager Vincent H. Hartley made the arrangements for the kickoff luncheon.

C. V. (Chick) Afterback, administrative assistant of the Bucks County Industrial Development Corporation, told the gathering that the job of luring industry into areas is a "highly competitive business." He noted that over 15,000 industrial development concerns last year spent $220 million to secure new industry in their respective areas.

2,000 Acres Open

Afterback pointed out that Bristol Township today has 34 manufacturing firms, employing some 6,000 people, but has some 2,000 acres of undeveloped lands.

Emphasizing the need for new industry, he noted that the township
(Continued on Page 19)

Boat Upsets, Tug Rescues Family Of 3

"If the tugboat hadn't come along, it might have been so long."

A 25-year-old Levittown father made this reflection today after he and his wife and 2½-year-old son were rescued from rough waters yesterday on Van Sciver Lake, Falls Township, by a Warner Co. tugboat, after their small boat capsized.

Treated and released, for exposure and shock, at Lower Bucks County Hospital yesterday afternoon, shortly after the accident, were the father, Robert Charles; his wife, Helen, 27, and their son, Christopher. They reside at 3 Laurel Lane, Lakeside, Levittown.

The family was taken to the hospital by an ambulance from the Union Fire Co. Morrisville.

Wind Topples Boat

The mishap occurred at 2:45 p.m. when a heavy gust of wind toppled the boat on its side and threw the occupants into the water. The boy was the only occupant wearing a life jacket. The boat was in the middle of the lake, about 300 yards from shore, between Bordentown Road Bridge and Pennsylvania Railroad.

"Everything happened so suddenly, we had little time to think," the husband said. "But we decided on the spot that my wife would stay with the boat and the boy, while I tried to swim to shore for help."

According to Charles, the boat was supposed to be unsinkable, but it proved to be only slightly buoyant.

"The boat started to sink almost immediately after it overturned," Charles said. "I tried to discard the rigging and right the boat."
(Continued on Page 3, Col. 7)

Middletown 'Rejects' Titov

Shenefelt: 'Missed Opportunity'

Major Gherman Titov, the Soviet cosmonaut, is in Princeton, N. J. today, but will probably not accept an invitation to Levittown.

The Middletown Township supervisors last night refused to welcome Titov to the township, much to the disgust of Arthur Shenefelt, spokesman for the Country Clubber Community Council, who invited Titov.

Shenefelt asked the supervisors for a resolution welcoming the Russian spaceman and for police protection in case Titov decided to take a look at Levittown and other portions of Middletown today.

Board Chairman James L. Cahill said he didn't care whether Titov came or not and Supervisor Walter Farley said Titov would be treated just as any other Russian. No action was taken on Shenefelt's request.

Today Shenefelt said he was not pro-Titov, but declared the township had passed up a good opportunity for publicity.

"The rejection by the supervisors shows the township is very provincial," he said. "We missed a big opportunity to bring national news coverage to the township." Pointing out that Princeton University, Bethlehem Steel Company, Baltimore, and Seattle, Wash. had invited Titov, Shenefelt said he was "sick" of promoting the visit and would do no more beyond a call this morning to Russian authorities to see if Titov would like to make the visit.

Titov's proposed visit to Levittown had been cleared by the state department. Shenefelt said the Russian delegation to the United Nations was deciding Titov's itinerary.

The invitation was prompted by a recent statement by Titov that he would like to visit urban and industrial developments, Shenefelt said.

He planned to show Titov Mid-
(Continued on Page 3, Col. 8)

INDEX

Amusements	15	Jacoby	9
Classified	27-31	Junior Reporter	32
COINWORD	8	Movies	15
Comics	32 - 33	Obituaries	11
Dear Abby	7	Stocks	26
Editorials	6	Sports	23, 25
Features	7	TV Schedule	33
Inquiring Reporter	17	TV Review	15
Investor	17	Women's News	12, 13

Courier-Times Classified Phone Number - WI 3-1000
Classified Dept. Night Phone - WI 6-4600

Beauty Contest Finalist

Jeanne Elizabeth Sule of Cornwells Heights is one of 10 beautiful and talented girls who will compete in the Miss Bucks County Pageant, May 19, at Neshaminy High School, Langhorne. Miss Sule is 19 years of age and is a junior at Temple University. She is a vocalist.

Bucks Challenge:
It's 'The Sprawl'

(Continued from Page 1)

dwellings through the years had proceeded one by one along the thoroughfares between Philadelphia and Trenton until they had merged.

Now, L. W. Bucks realized that he was losing his identity. No longer were he and his family members of a small community — any community at all, for that matter. As land between his community and the metropolitan centers continued to be developed for commercial and residential purposes, he found that his neighborhood was losing its boundaries.

At last, the Bucks' were now living amidst an intricate patchwork development with no identifiable center.

Planning Commission

The Bucks County Planning Commission must have had the foreseeable plight of L. W. Bucks and the threatened stifling of commerce in mind when it got started about 10 years ago.

County leaders and members of the commission saw Bucks County's key location as the major factor in its future growth.

It occupied a spot near the center of the Middle Atlantic Region and lay in the paths of vital transportation arteries connecting the metropolitan centers of the Eastern Seaboard.

Wide Open Land

Although strategically located, Bucks County, in 1950, consisted mostly of wide open land. During the previous decade, its population had risen sharply by about one-third. Then in the early 1950's the real population boom began.

Bucks was in the unique position of being located between three large metropolitan areas. Not only was there a large influx of inhabitants from adjoining Philadelphia to Lower Bucks County, but also from Trenton. To the north, the populace of the Bethlehem-Allentown area was also spilling over into Bucks.

Industrial Expansion

Industrial expansion in Lower Bucks during the Korean Conflict and the availability of large tracts of land gave impetus to the large-scale developments of Levittown and Fairless Hills and increased building activity along the Montgomery County Line.

Mass production of homes and easy credit terms attracted people who otherwise might not have considered moving to the suburbs. Between 1950 and 1960, the county population more than doubled to a total of 308,000.

Active Part

During this period, the planning commission had been actively taking a part in assembling data, studying trends and planning land uses in the county.

It gradually gained the confidence of township and borough officials and helped many local municipalities start their own planning commissions. In 1950, there existed only one such commission on the local level. Now there are 40.

Through the years, the commission has reviewed its plans at hundreds of meetings with local officials, realtors, and business and industrial leaders.

Future Role

With a decade of experience under its belt, the commission now will propose the future role of Bucks County as a part of the metropolitan complex. This role will affect the lives of every individual living in the county.

This role is contained in the commission's long awaited Comprehensive Plan — to be unveiled at dinner-meeting tonight arranged by the Bucks County Commissioners and to be attended by county, local, regional and state agencies. It will be held at the Doylestown Country Club at 6:30 p.m.

(Continued Tomorrow)

Ike Praises,
Criticizes
Kennedy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower charged today that President Kennedy's requests to Congress for greater executive power represent "the real threat to liberty in this republic."

Eisenhower, while attacking the Kennedy administration's domestic programs, praised his Democratic successor for his firmness in foreign affairs and dealing with Russia.

In protesting "the strenuous efforts of the (Kennedy) administration to increase greatly the power of the executive branch of the government," Eisenhower listed five specific proposals made by Kennedy. He said these were "only a few of the recent proposals to vest more authority in ever-growing federal bureaucracy."

Eisenhower also told a crowded news conference on Capitol Hill that he and Republican congressional leaders saw no "enthusiasm or sense of priority" in the administration's various investigations of the Billie Sol Estes grain storage scandal.

Under his administration, he said, Democratic congresses seemed to conduct investigations of the executive branch with greater speed.

Other Highlights

His news conference statements included these other highlights:

—He endorsed the GOP leadership statement of several weeks ago which accused Kennedy of "blackjacking" the steel companies into rescinding their $6 a ton price increase.

—He applauded Kennedy's actions to fight off the Communists in South Viet Nam, but expressed concern about encouraging a coalition with the Communists in Laos.

Asphyxiation

(Continued from Page 1)

18 inches of oil sludge at the bottom in which they suffocated.

Cleaning Tank

The men were cleaning the tank sunk beneath the first floor of a two story warehouse at 6th St. and Glenwood Ave.

Detectives reported that Eisenhower, who moved into Lower Bucks recently from Lewistown, Pa., apparently collapsed from the fumes and was spotted by Portnoy, who shouted for help and jumped into the tank to save his helper. Portnoy then lost his life going to Eisenhower's rescue.

Two firemen were sickened by the fumes and other firemen used oxygen hoses to breathe when they entered the tank to recover the bodies. Rushed to Temple University Hospital, the men were pronounced dead on arrival.

Both Have Children

Portnoy is survived by his wife, Helene, and two children, Alan, 11, and Iris, 9. He was a member of the Levittown Jaycees.

Eisenhart was married and the father of two children.

Long Hoses

Police said Portnoy and Eisenhower arrived on the job yesterday morning in a tank truck and drove inside the building. The truck was equipped with long hoses which evidently were to be used to pump out the oil in the tank which was about 10 feet high.

About 10 a.m., Eisenhower yelled for help while working inside the tank. Portnoy, after shouting to carpenters and painters nearby to get help, then went down into the tank after Eisenhower.

As the painters rushed toward the hatch, it lighted up with a "shower of sparks" that seemed to come from the droplight.

"Throw me a rope," Portnoy shouted to them.

Shouts Stop

Unable to find a rope, the men found a heavy wire and were lowering it through the hatch when the shouts of the two men suddenly stopped.

One of the painters ran outside and pulled a fire alarm box, bringing out Ladder Co. 12 and Engine 50.

A fireman was lowered into the tank, but he was quickly pulled out, gasping for breath. Another fireman then donned an airpump and was lowered by rope into the tank. He found Portnoy's body, attached a rope to it, and other firemen hauled him out.

Eisenhart's body was found beneath the oil by still another fireman.

Close Call

Portnoy, who had been doing tank maintenance work for the past four years, once before had a close call with death when he had to be given respiratory treatment after being overcome by acid fumes.

His wife today said, "I just don't know what happened. He's done hundreds of jobs like this."

Mrs. Portnoy explained that her husband had to take precautions on certain tanks, carrying gas masks and respiratory equipment with him.

She said she understood that "everything was all right in the tank that he worked on yesterday. I don't know why there

Retiring Officers

Retiring officers of the Bucks County Bankers Association are shown at the association's annual banquet held last night at the Warrington Country Club. The men, who will serve until the end of June, are: (seated, from left) Harold E. Hanson, president; Alfred S. Laubach, vice-president; and (standing from left) P. David Rauschenberger, secretary and Walter S. Bair, treasurer. (Courier-Times Photo)

Tullytown

(Continued from Page 1)

time but prior to last night, no positive action had been taken.

Attached to the resolution was a memorandum from the Tullytown board which has been sent to the Bucks County superintendent of schools, Dr. George E. Raab, stating Tullytown's reasons for the proposed change.

Reasons Revealed
These, as revealed in the Courier-Times Tuesday, included the belief that Pennsylvania is geared for education beyond the high-school level more than Delhaas, that the geographical set-up will be better and that the socio-economic conditions in the Pennsylvania jointure are more closely similar to those in Tullytown than are the same conditions in Bristol Township — in other words, that the residents are on a more comparable economic basis.

"Inasmuch as the borough of Tullytown does desire and intend to withdraw from Delhaas and seek jointure with Pennsylvania the joint school system," the resolution read, "The directors of the Tullytown school district do hereby request the Bristol Township school board to release them from the Delhaas agreement."

The resolution went on to add that this was dependent upon acceptance by Pennsylvania, which consists now of Falls and Lower Makefield Townships and Yardley Borough.

Swift Action
The directors devoted little time to discussion of the resolution, feeling apparently that the subject already has been talked out. Tullytown 10 years ago, with different personnel on the board, refused to join the Pennsylvania system and helped create the Delhaas jointure instead.

In other action last night the board elected Morris Feldman as treasurer for the coming year and set up two special meetings.

One will be Wednesday, May 16, at which time a resolution will be presented dropping the amusement tax from 10 per cent to nine per cent in accordance with a tentative budget adopted last month.

Second Meeting
The other special meeting has been set for May 31 for final adoption of the budget if possible. However, it cannot be approved in final form until a budget for the Delhaas jointure is approved and the Delhaas board has not yet come up with a budget figure fixing the share of the costs which Tullytown is to bear.

The tentative budget calls for an increase in real-estate tax of two mills. However, this includes $109,000 for the Delhaas costs and board members believe this figure will be sufficiently smaller to allow the increase to be dropped to one mill.

Other Survivors
In addition to his wife and two children, Portnoy is survived by his mother, Mrs. Pauline Breslow, of Philadelphia and a sister, Mrs. Florence Mendelson of Levittown.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 11 a.m. from Goldstein's, 6410 N. Board St., Philadelphia. Shiva will be observed at Mrs. Mendelson's home at 82 Border Rock Road, Blue Ridge, Levittown.

Funeral services for Eisenhower will be held in Lewistown.

Bucks Bankers Unit
Elects New Officers

Alfred S. Laubach of Quakertown was elected president of the Bucks County Bankers Association at the 37th annual meeting of the group last night at the Warrington Country Club.

The meeting, which attracted 147 members and guests, was conducted by Harold E. Hanson, assistant vice-president of the Philadelphia National Bank of Bristol.

Officers elected for the coming year included Laubach, assistant treasurer, Provident Trust Bank and Trust Co., Quakertown; Vice president: Homer S. Hoover, executive vice president, First National Bank and Trust Co., Newtown; secretary: P. David Rauschenberger, vice president and secretary, Bucks County Bank and Trust Co., Perkasie; and treasurer: Walter S. Bair, cashier, The Squire National Bank of New Hope.

Members of the executive committee include Harold E. Hanson, assistant vice president, Philadelphia National Bank, Bristol; Paul N. Detwiler, treasurer, Doylestown Trust Company, Doylestown; Morten L. Holsinger, cashier, Quakertown National Bank, Quakertown; Joseph R. Creachan, assistant vice president, Central Penn National Bank, Langhorne; and Watson R. Janney, executive vice president, Squire National Bank of New Hope.

Following the business session, the members and guests enjoyed a concert by the Delaware Valley Choral Society.

The following guests were introduced by President Hanson:

Grandson

(Continued from Page 1)

Stanley, 1; Joseph, 2½; and Carol Denithorne, 23, and her daughter, Pamela, 4. Also rescued were Janet Reiner, 19, and her two children, Lois Tuleo, 8, and Maria Tuleo, 5.

Mrs. Helen Martin, 53, Ambler, was driving the car which struck the girl as she emerged on her bicycle from the shopping center, police reported. No charges will be made against the driver, police said.

Tara Dantzig, a seven-year-old Levittown girl, was injured yesterday on Route 413 at the Skyline Shopping Center, Middletown Township, when she was struck by a car.

Township police said Tara, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Leon H. Dantzig, 87 Deep Dale Drive, Levittown, suffered abrasions of the right leg. She was treated and released at Lower Bucks County Hospital.

Copies of the limited edition are now available at the Courier-Times office or by mail. The $1.00 cost per volume merely covers the publishing charge. Below is a mail order blank.

Name _____
Address _____

Number of Copies at $1.00 per Copy _____
Add 25 cents per copy to defray mailing and service charge. Please send check or money order ONLY to "Book Editor," Courier-Times, Levittown, Pa.

Now Available In Book Form

'An Adventure
In Understanding'

The Mysterious Lands Of The Orient

As a service to readers the Courier-Times has republished in attractive and illustrated book form the fascinating and significant articles by Editor George G. Gray on his recent on-the-spot study of the Far East.

Copies of the limited edition are now available at the Courier-Times office or by mail. The $1.00 cost per volume merely covers the publishing charge. Below is a mail order blank.

Name _____
Address _____

Number of Copies at $1.00 per Copy _____
Add 25 cents per copy to defray mailing and service charge. Please send check or money order ONLY to "Book Editor," Courier-Times, Levittown, Pa.

Bucks Unit Opens
3-Step Campaign

By BEN McELVEEN
Courier-Times Staff Writer

The Bucks County Medical Society yesterday initiated a three-step campaign to fight President Kennedy's Medical Care Bill for the Aged.

The society, meeting in Doylestown, discussed a plan whereby individual member-doctors will petition their patients in order to fight the controversial King-Anderson Bill.

Dr. Quentin Conwell, Levittown, a director and past president of the society, listed the three-step plan as 1) the individual petitioning by member-doctors; 2) an advertising campaign and 3) a public speaking campaign by member-doctors.

Similar Plan

He said the plan to get patients to sign petitions followed a similar plan initiated yesterday by the Philadelphia Medical Association. That association set up a petition campaign in opposing the act, and is sending out copies of the petition to all its members.

Dr. Conwell said the Bucks County petitioning plan would work on a more individual basis. "If doctors want to petition their patients," he said, "they can. But no copy of our petition will be sent out to them. They will have to prepare their own."

The second step, the advertising campaign, was to go into operation today. The society named a special public relations committee to handle it.

Committee Members

Dr. Conwell heads this committee. In addition, Dr. John McGraw, Fairless Hills, was named chairman of the medical economic committee to finance the campaign, and Dr. Daniel Erhard, Levittown, executive secretary of the society, will also work with the special public relations committee.

Conwell explained the county wide advertising campaign will be timed to immediately follow President Kennedy's planned big rally in support of the medicare plan in Madison Square Gardens in New York on May 20.

The advertising campaign, using newspaper ads stating the society is against the medicare plan, will begin May 21, and will continue for about a week. "The length depends on how our money holds out," he added.

With State Campaign

The county wide ad campaign will also tie-in with a state wide ad campaign, which is being organized by the Pennsylvania State Medical Society.

The third step in the plan is the speaking campaign. This will mean that member-doctors will be on call to speak against medicare at any club or organization meetings throughout the country, at their request, he said.

"The society is definitely opposed to the King-Anderson Bill," Dr. Conwell said. The Bucks County Society met during a luncheon meeting in the Conti Inn, Doylestown.

Boat Upsets

(Continued from Page 1)

but it was too heavy and I couldn't roll it over.

"That's when I decided to try to make it to shore for help. When I got halfway to shore, I was numb from the cold water and tired. I don't know if I would have made it or not. I think I would have."

When Charles was midway between shore and where his boat had capsized, he was spotted by Capt. John McLaughlin, aboard the tugboat The Vanity, about 150 yards away from the capsized boat. Calls for help from Mrs. Charles had helped the captain spot the capsized boat.

Deckhand Samuel DiGiuseppe was then alerted by Capt. McLaughlin, and a loaded barge which the tugboat was pulling was cut loose. The tugboat rushed to the scene and picked up the child and his mother, before rescuing the father who was near complete exhaustion.

The child's clothing was removed and he was given warm clothing.

While the Vanity was steered for the capsized boat, Capt. McLaughlin had radioed another tugboat, The Victory, which rushed to the scene and stood by during the rescue operations.

Thirty minutes after the boat had capsized, the Charles family was in the hospital.

First Boat Accident

Charles, who has been sailing for almost four years, said that it was his first boat accident he had ever had.

"The tugboat captain and his crew did a wonderful job in rescuing me and my family," Charles said gratefully. "They moved quickly and efficiently and in a matter of minutes we were aboard the tug. We are very grateful."

Officers George Mitchell and Elliott Bainbridge of Falls Township police, and special officer Ike Watson investigated the accident.

Watchful Eye

Al Dowd, personnel manager, Warner Co., Van Seiver plant, Rt. 13 and Tyburn Road, Falls Township, said that the tug had loaded on the other side of the lake off a dredge and was headed towards the plant.

Dowd said that the captains of the tugboats on the lake had noticed the small Charles sailboat and had been "keeping an eye" on the craft because of a steadily increasing wind velocity at that time.

Thiokol Shed
Catches Fire

Firemen yesterday extinguished a blaze confined to an old testing shed in the rear of the Thiokol Corp. plant on the Newportville-Fallsington Road, Levittown.

A general alarm, sounded at 4:02 p.m., brought units from Levittown No. 2, Edgely, Croydon and Newportville fire companies. However, all apparatus except Levittown No. 2 was sent back when the blaze was found to be minor.

Youth's Car
Hits Hydrant,
Two Injured

A 16-year-old Levittown youth who was found unconscious on a lawn by the Levittown - Fairless Hills Rescue Squad after his car struck a fire hydrant last night told Falls Township police that he lost control when "something went wrong with the car."

The youth, Charles Hewges of 56 Mimosa Lane, Magnolia Hill, was riding with two passengers, John Glin, 15, of 109 Birch Drive, Levittown, and Frances Heilman, also 15, of 23 Echo Lane, Evergreen, Levittown, when the accident occurred at 6:50 p.m. at Birch Drive and Butterfly Lane, Fairless Hills.

Hewges and the Heilman girl were treated at Lower Bucks Hospital and released after being taken there by the rescue squad.

Hewges sustained a lacerated lip and bruised thigh, and the Heilman girl suffered a bruised right ankle and leg.

Gin was not injured. Hewges told police that he felt something was wrong with the car, shifted into second gear and then lost control of the wheel.

Middletown

(Continued from Page 1)

dietown Township's 1,500-acre industrial tract, touted as the largest area for industrial development in the east, and Levittown homes which still have a high resale value after six and seven years, Shenefelt said.

"He'd get a bellyful of our high standard of living," Shenefelt said. Stating that he would be in New York today, Shenefelt indicated he would not be in a position to welcome Titov if the Russians should decide on a last-minute acceptance of the invitation.

Births

Lower Bucks
County Hospital

May 8

Mr. and Mrs. John Barber, 51 Vermillion Drive, Levittown, girl

May 9

Mr. and Mrs. John Kepko, 5 Fern Lane, Levittown, girl

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Cook, 26 Horseshoe Lane, Levittown, boy

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bahm, 43 Homestead Road, Levittown, girl

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Metzradt, 90 Kingwood Lane, Levittown, boy

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Limburg, 30 Gooseneck Road, Levittown, girl

Tomorrow's Tides
At Bristol*

Low: 4:23 a.m. High: 9:47 a.m.
Low: 5:36 p.m. High: 10:25 p.m.
—for the tides at Morrisville add 15 minutes for high tide and 45 minutes for low tide.